

Products with Apple badge means that a product has been designed to work with the technology identified in the badge and has been certified by the product manufacturer to meet the performance and security standards of Apple. Apple is not responsible for the operation of this device or use of this product or its compliance with statutory standards.